Conclusion

By 2021, we will have radically transformed Health and Social Care across Bury.

There is no ‘quick fix’ and our response, as set out in this Locality Plan, will be wide-ranging and transformational.

This is not a challenge that can be met by Health and Social Care services alone.

It will require a broader approach across the entire Public Service and beyond.

The active involvement and participation of local people and our local workforce is essential.

Doing nothing is not an option, but we have choices about what we do to tackle this challenge.

We have chosen to focus on an approach which invests in local people and communities and is aimed at improving outcomes for local people through prevention, early intervention and providing the right services, in the right place, at the right time.

Whilst dealing with the financial challenges is essential, we will not lose sight of the fact that local people are our priority and that this is an opportunity to make a real and lasting positive impact.

These proposals achieve both financial sustainability and create a platform upon which we can radically transform services and systems for the better.
