BURY

BURY is a municipal, parliamentary and county borough, market town, parish and township, the head of a poor law union, of a county court district and a petty sessional division, in the Bury division of the hundred of Salford, rural deanery of Bury, archdeaconry of Rochdale and diocese of Manchester: it is 195 miles from London by railway, 12½ south from Accrington, 5½ east-north-east from Bolton, 16½ south-east from Blackburn, 18½ from Burnley, 39½ from Barnsley, 24½ from Colne, 41 east-north-east from Liverpool, 46½ from Leeds, 9 north from Manchester, 6½ west from Rochdale, 32½ from Southport and 14½ east-by-north from Wigan.

The parish of Bury originally consisted of the following townships:—Bury, Elton, Heap, Walmersley-cum-Shuttleworth, Tottington Higher End, Tottington Lower End, Cowpe Lench, with Newhall Hey and Hall Carr; and Musbury, Musden Head and the Tripit of Ogden, but of these, some have been formed into distinct parishes.

Bury, situated in a fertile valley, is healthy, though its climate is humid: in common with all the places in the neighbourhood of the lofty hills which separate Lancashire from Yorkshire, more rain falls here than the average quantity of the island, and, taken for a number of years, the depth is found to be at least 40 inches in the year: in the districts of Tottington the inhabitants are remarkable for longevity.

The town was incorporated by Royal Charter, dated 9th Sept. 1876; its corporate body consisting of a mayor, ten aldermen and thirty councillors, who also act as the Urban Sanitary Authority: the borough is divided into five wards, and has a separate commission of the peace. Under the Redistribution of Seats Act, 1885, the municipal and parliamentary boroughs were co-extensive, but under the provisions of the Representation of the People Act, 1918, the parliamentary borough now includes within its area the Urban District of Tottington, and returns one member; under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1888, Bury for certain purposes of that Act is declared a "County Borough," and is a civil parish under the Local Government Act, 1894.

The town stands on the east bank of the river Irwell, here crossed by a bridge of three arches, considerably widened in 1883, and is about 2 miles from the confluence of the Irwell with the Roach. The Bury canal extends to Bolton. There are two stations on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, respectively in Knowsley street and Bolton street, and the Bury and Tottington branch line has a station at Woolfold and terminates at Holcombe Brook.

All the streets are paved, and the whole town is drained on an efficient system, and lighted with gas from works belonging to the Corporation, in Victoria street, Elton, covering about 4 acres. The electric light was introduced Nov. 9th, 1896, and the principal thoroughfares are now lighted therewith. There is an abundant supply of good water from reservoirs at Gin Hall, Calf Hey, Ogden, Hapton, Scout Moor and Shuttleworth, the property of the Bury and District Joint Water Board. There is also a plentiful supply of water for manufacturing purposes from streams passing through the town and neighbourhood.

The County Borough of Bury Public Abattoirs, Ice Stores and Refrigerating Rooms were opened in April, 1903.

The Corporation of Bury Electric Tramways, inaugurated in June, 1903, are open to Limefield, Heap Bridge, Whitefield, Jericho, Hopwood and Tottington; through services are run to Bolton, Heywood, Radcliffe and Rochdale.

The parish church of St. Mary the Virgin, said to have been erected during the latter part of the 10th century, was rebuilt in 1215-1230, and restored in 1535: it was again rebuilt in 1776-1780, and the spire renewed in 1844: the present edifice, erected in 1871-1876, at a cost of £30,000, raised by subscription, is a building of local stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a tower with spire containing 8 bells, recast in 1722; nearly all the windows are stained: there are some mural monuments, but all the ancient monuments were destroyed in 1558, and there is a tablet erected to the memory of those of the parish who fell in the Great War, 1914-18. The highly gilded and coloured oak reredos, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. William Bridge, was placed above the high altar in 1922 in memory of their son, Capt. J. K. Bridge; the central panel represents the adoration of the Infant Jesus by the three kings and on either side are panels representing saints; above these panels are angels, while at the tops of the side buttresses are figures of SS. Michael and George; on the top of the central pinnacle of the arch is a pelican, representing sacrifice. The gilded and coloured oak reredos in the south chapel was given in memory of Lt. C. E. C. Hill, son of the rector of Bury; the central figure is that of St. Mary the Virgin, and on either side are figures of St. George, St. Patrick, St. Andrew and St. David. In the church are the colours of many battalions of the Lancashire Fusiliers: there are sittings for 900 persons, the greater part of which are free. The register dates from

The following are ecclesiastical parishes formed from St. Mary's:—

St. John's was formed January 25th, 1860. The church, in Stanley street, erected in 1770, is a plain building of stone in the Norman style, consisting of chancel and nave and a turret containing one bell; the east window is stained: the church was restored in 1891, at a cost of £1,000, and has sittings for about 850 persons, of which 450 are free. The register dates from the year 1822; entries previous to that date are in the register of St. Mary's. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £550, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1884 by the Rev. Richard Plantagenet Hudson M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin, and surrogate.

St. Paul's parish was formed in 1843. The church, in St. Paul street, erected in 1841, is a plain edifice of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisles and a western tower, with pinnacles, containing one bell: there are sittings for 600 persons, of which 540 are free. The register dates from the year 1842. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £323, with residence, in the gift of five trustees, and held since 1921 by the Rev. Ernest William Burnell B.A. of Gonville and Caius College, Cambridge.

Holy Trinity parish was formed February 3rd, 1866. The church, in Spring street, opened in November, 1864, and consecrated in April, 1865, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel, nave, aisle, organ chamber and a turret containing one bell: there are sittings for 500 persons. The register dates from the year 1864. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £374, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1897 by the Rev. Edward Albert Glenday M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford.

St. Peter's parish was formed February 11th, 1873, from Bury, Prestwich and Radcliffe parishes. The original church, at Bedvales, erected in 1872 at a cost of £6,600, was a plain building of stone in the Early English style, and consisted of chancel, nave, aisles, organ chamber and vestries; owing to the insecurity of the building, it had to be pulled down and was rebuilt in 1900 at a cost of £7,000: there are sittings for 500 persons. The register dates from the year 1872. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £413, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1922 by the Rev. Francis Ernest Lloyd Hurst A.K.C.L.

St. Mark's parish was formed in 1885 from the parish of St. Paul. The church, in Brookshaw street, erected in 1883, at a cost of £5,500, is a building of local stone in the Gothic style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles and a turret containing one bell: there are 730 sittings. The register dates from the year 1885. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1884 by the Rev. John Mortimer Maddox M.A. of Pembroke College, Oxford.

St. Thomas' parish was formed May 21st, 1867, from the civil parishes of Bury and Prestwich. The church, in Rochdale road, erected in 1866 by Thomas Openshaw esq. of Primrose Hill, at a cost of £8,000, is a building of stone in the Gothic style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, organ chamber and a lofty tower with spire containing one bell: the organ was the gift of the brother of the founder: in 1921 a beautiful side chapel was erected as a memorial to Mrs. Ormerod, an old member of the congregation: the east window was erected to the memory of those who fell in the Great War, 1914-18: there are sittings for 620 persons, of which 300 are free. The register dates from the year 1867. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £350, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1915 by the Rev. William Wood M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin.

The Roman Catholic church, erected in 1842, in Manchester road and dedicated to the Virgin Mary, is a building of stone in the Perpendicular style, consisting of chancel and nave and a western tower; the east window is stained: there are sittings for 500 persons.

St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Peter street, erected in 1871, is an edifice of brick and stone, in the Gothic style, consisting of chancel and nave and a lady chapel: there are sittings for about 500 persons.

There are several Nonconformist places of worship; for particulars see p. 400.

The Cemetery, at Bedvales, on the Manchester road, was opened in 1869 and contains 33 acres, with three mortuary chapels and a residence for the registrar. There is also a cemetery for the Unitarians at Hole Bottom, containing about 5 acres with a mortuary chapel.

The Town Hall and Assembly Rooms, in Market street, were erected at the expense of a former Earl of Derby. The Town Hall is a building in the Italian style, with a spacious chamber for public assemblies, the lower part of the building being occupied as offices by the agent of the Earl of Derby; the Police Office and the magistrates' room, in which the petty sessions and courts are held, form a part of the Town Hall buildings. The municipal insignia include a chain and badge and a common seal. The former, presented in 1876 by Mrs. Duckworth, wife of the first mayor, is of gold, and consists of a series of tabular links bearing on the one side the arms of the Duchy of Lancaster, and on the other the names of successive mayors of Bury. The badge, 6 inches long by 3 wide, displays the arms of the borough entwined with oak and laurel, and below the motto, "Vincit omnia industria." The seal is merely an embossing stamp. The mayor wears a robe of scarlet cloth, lined with white silk and trimmed with black velvet and fur.

The Technical School, in Broad street, was opened Sept. 15th, 1894, at a cost of £22,000, and has 24 class rooms; there are now (1924) about 1,000 students in science, art, technology and commerce.

The Art Gallery and Public Library, a handsome building of stone in the style of the 18th century, opened in 1901, was erected as a memorial of the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria, and as a permanent home for the Wrigley collection of oil and water-colour paintings, engravings and statuary, which were presented to the borough by the then existing members of the family of Thomas Wrigley esq. of Timberhurst, Bury. The galleries consist of five large rooms and two halls. The upper hall and two of the galleries are exclusively devoted to the gift before mentioned. The collection consists of 122 pictures in oil and water-colours, 80 engravings by Turner and Sir Joshua Reynolds, six pieces of Sculpture and three Wedgwood plaques. The collection has been added to by gifts and bequests from local people. In the basement of the Art Gallery is a museum of natural history, art and local antiquities.

The Public Libraries Act was adopted by a vote of the Council on June 3rd, 1897, and the provision for Libraries and Reading Rooms consists of Reference and Lending Libraries, Men's and Women's Reading Rooms, Juvenile Department and a Borrowers' Hall. The stock of books available for use numbers over 30,000. The building was erected at a cost of about £37,000, and is maintained by a rate.

The Athenæum, adjoining the Town Hall, is a building of stone in the Italian style, comprising a large hall, reading, billiard, news and class rooms, offices, and a library containing some 10,000 volumes; the hall, which is fitted with a stage, will seat 1,000 persons, and is available for concerts and other public entertainments.

The Young Men's Christian Association, established in 1875, has premises in Stanley street, containing a fine central hall, capable of seating from 300 to 500 persons: there are also 6 billiard tables, library, reading and writing rooms & gymnasium: in 1921 a wireless receiving station was installed.

The Textile Operatives' Hall, in Manchester road, built at a cost of about £8,000 by local textile associations, viz.: the Bury, Radcliffe and District Weavers' and Winders' Association and the Bury and District Card, Blowing and Ring Spinners' Association, and opened by Lady Dilke, May 5th, 1894, is a structure of brick and stone from designs by Mr. David Hardman, architect. The panels on the front elevation have carved illustrations of the different branches of the textile industry.

The Corporation Public Baths, in St. Mary's place, Manchester road, were opened in 1864, and extended in 1893 by the construction of a new swimming bath, 75 feet long by 30 feet in width: the water is always under filtration, and in 1904 tiled brick, Turkish, Russian and vapour baths were rebuilt and fitted with the latest apparatus.

The Theatre Royal and Opera House, in Princess street, was erected in 1889.

In the centre of the Old Market place is a statue of the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Peel bart. M.P. erected by public subscription in 1852, at a cost of £3,000; the figure, 10 feet in height, is placed on a pedestal of Scotch granite, 12 feet 6 inches high and is enclosed by an iron palisading. Here also is a memorial, erected in 1906, to those of the Lancashire Fusiliers who fell in the South African war, 1899-1902.

The Market, held in a street of the same name, was formerly, according to the ancient charter, held on Thursday, but this has long been discontinued, and custom has established a market on Saturday, which is well supplied with all kinds of provisions, and well attended. The market hall is an irregular structure of red brick, built in 1901, and is the property of the Corporation; the two sides of the building facing Market street and Moss street are occupied by shops having through communication into the market; the interior is covered in and has 100 stalls. On the site of the open market is now a small park, with a statue of John Kay, the inventor of the fly shuttle, given by Henry Whitehead esq.: here also is a fountain and sundial. Three annual fairs are held at Bury—on the 5th of March, the 3rd of May and 19th of September.

A number of the emigrant Flemings established themselves in the parish of Bury in the reign of Edward III. making their first webs from the fleeces grown in the forest of Tottington; but the first distinct notice we have of the manufacture in Bury is in the reign of Henry VIII. when Leland, writing of these parts, remarks: "Yerbe sumtime made abowte Beri, a market towne, on Irwell." In the reign of Elizabeth the woollen trade flourished to such an extent that an alpagger was appointed at Bury by Act of Parliament to stamp woollen cloth, for the purpose of preventing it from being unduly stretched on the tenters. The woollen manufacture, though not the staple trade, nevertheless still employs a large number of hands, but the greater proportion of the population are engaged in the cotton trade.

A circumstance which contributed above all others to bring Bury into note as a seat of a particular branch of the cotton manufacture was the establishment of the Bury Ground Print Works by an enterprising firm, at the head of which stood Mr.

Robert Peel, afterwards Sir Robert Peel, the first baronet and father of the eminent statesman: the perfection to which this company brought the art of calico-printing both enriched themselves and increased the wealth and importance of the town of Bury. In addition to the cotton and woollen industries, calico-printing, bleaching and dye works, the manufacture of steam engines, power-looms, steam boilers, paper makers' machinery, and iron and brass founding is carried on: the making of hats is also a trade of some importance.

John Kay, a native of the town, invented in 1738 a mode of throwing the shuttle, by means of the picking peg instead of the hand, hence called the fly-shuttle; and in the year 1760 his son Robert produced the drop-box, by which the weaver can use any one of three shuttles, and thereby weave a fabric of various colours with almost the same facility as he can weave a common calico. The invention of setting cards by machinery also belongs to a member of this ingenious family. It was formerly the practice, in the process of spinning, to stop the machine while the broken threads were being united, but in 1791 Mr. Henry Whitehead, postmaster of Bury, obviated the necessity for this perpetually recurring interruption by suggesting a method of piecing the end while the machine continued in motion, which has from that time been generally adopted.

The Bury Infirmary, in Walmersley road, erected in 1882 and enlarged in 1893, is a plain building of local stone, consisting of a central block containing surgery, residence for medical officers and apartments for nurses and wings on each side, arranged in wards: there are 101 beds. The institution is supported by public subscriptions; during the year 1922 there were 1,010 in-patients and 550 out-patients. A new operating theatre with anæsthetic, sterilising, pathological, X-ray and dark rooms, was opened in 1908. An Isolation block, the gift of Mr. Oswald O. Wrigley, of Bridge Hall, in memory of his wife, and called the Annie Wrigley Isolation Block, was opened in 1915. A massage and electrical department was opened in 1917.

A building, erected and provided with electro-medical and mechano-therapeutic apparatus, at the expense of Mr. S. F. Butcher and friends, is used primarily for the treatment of wounded sailors and soldiers.

The Florence Nightingale Infectious Diseases Hospital, opened in 1903, and situated off Bolton road, has 5 pavilions and a convalescent home with a total of 96 beds. An administrative building with kitchens, connected by a corridor, is centrally placed, and comprises dispensary, apartments for the doctors and matron, and rooms for nurses and servants. In the south-west portion of the site are grouped the laundry, boiler house, disinfection house, mortuary and laboratory: there is also a discharge block. The total cost of buildings and land amounted to upwards of £34,000. The hospital was erected by the Bury Corporation and transferred on October 1, 1903, to the Bury and District Joint Hospital board, which also has control of a hospital, at Ainsworth, with 40 beds, for small-pox patients only. The Aitken Sanatorium at Holcombe, near Ramsbottom (65 beds), is for consumptives.

The Northern Counties Hospital for Incurables has a branch here for female patients founded by Miss Robinson Kay, of Walmersley.

The public recreation grounds, varying from 2 to 27 acres in extent, the first of which was opened in 1886, are five in number, being situated in the north, south, east and west suburbs of the town.

The Whitehead Recreation Ground, in Elton, was the gift of Henry Whitehead esq. of Haslem Hey, and the Barlow Recreation Ground, at Blackford Bridge, the gift of Capt. John Barlow, of Wellfield; 5½ acres of the Rochdale Road Ground were presented by Thomas Ormerod Openshaw esq. who also defrayed the cost of laying out the same, and providing a tennis court, bowling green, pavilion, bandstand, shelters &c.; the remaining cost of the ground, as well as the cost of the Manchester Road and Clarence (Walmersley Road) Grounds, was met by several gifts and voluntary contributions. All the grounds are equipped with gymnasia and swings, and during the summer months music is provided weekly by the corporation.

Bury is supposed to have been a Roman station and is a place of considerable antiquity. On the banks of the old course of the Irwell, in a field called "Castle Croft," the remains of the foundations of a castle have been found, as well as coins of the Edwards, Henry VIII., Elizabeth and the Stuarts; one of the twelve ancient baronial castles of Lancashire stood on this spot.

During the Civil wars Bury Castle was battered by the cannon of the Parliamentary army from an entrenchment called "Castle Steads," in the adjoining township of Walmersley: and from that period its overthrow may be dated. Near this spot was held the court of the royal manor of Tottington, which then possessed the power of imprisoning and executing criminals; and a neighbouring eminence is still called "Gallows Hill."

At an early period Bury was one of the fees belonging to the royal manor of Tottington, and held by the De Lacys, who enjoyed the possession soon after the Norman accession, together with the lordship of Blackburn. In the reign of Henry II. Robert de Lacy made a grant of certain lands in the parish, to which Geoffrey, Dean of Whalley, is witness. According to the Testa de Nevill, Adam de Bary, in the reign of Henry III. held a knight's fee in Bury of the Earl of Lincoln's fee, who held it of the King's tenant in chief, William de Ferrers, Earl of Derby; and Bury at that time was part of the Countess of Lincoln's dowry. Edmund de Lacy, second Earl of Lincoln, in the reign of Henry III. obtained a charter for free warren in his manor of Tottington, and also in other manors; and Henry de Lacy, third earl, held a similar grant in the reign of Edward I. On the death of Henry de Lacy, in 1312, the manor of Bury passed to Thomas Plantagenet, Earl of Lancaster, in the right of his wife Alicia, the heiress of Henry de Lacy, Lincoln. After the death of Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, and on the erection of the Duchy of Lancaster, in 1351, Roger Pilkington is enumerated among the Duchy tenants as holding one knight's fee in Bury, which Adam de Bury formerly held of the honour of Lancaster. The Bury family do not appear to have entirely ceased their connection with the parish until after the reign of Henry VIII. A licence was granted by Edward IV. to Sir Thomas Pilkington, a devoted adherent to the house of York, created knight banneret at Hotonfield, near Berwick, 22nd August, 1481, to crenel and embattle his manor house at Stand; and this continued to be the family residence till, on the attainder of Sir Thomas Pilkington in the reign of Henry VII. the manor of Bury and the other estates of the Pilkington family, being forfeited, were granted by the Crown under the Great Seal to Thomas, first Earl of Derby, in whose family it still remains.

On the 4th July, 1787, a company of strolling players were performing here in a barn, when the gable end fell in and buried three hundred persons in the ruins, several of whom were killed and many had their legs broken.

The land is a stiff loam, and tolerably fertile, but a very small portion of it is under the plough. The parish and district abounds with coal and stone of an excellent quality.

Under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894, the municipal borough of Bury has been formed into a civil parish, absorbing Elton, Heap (part of), Pilkington and parts of Birtle-cum-Bamford, Radcliffe, Tottington Lower End and Walmersley-cum-Shuttleworth townships. A portion of the Radcliffe Urban District, known as Warth fold, was added to the borough in 1911. The area is 5,907 acres of land and 181 of water; rateable value, £291,814.

The population in 1881 was 54,717, in 1891, 57,212, in 1901, 58,029, in 1911, 59,040 and in 1921, 56,403, including 77 officials and 560 inmates of the Poor Law Institution.

The populations of the municipal wards in 1921 were: Church, 6,760; East, 11,900; Elton, 13,271; Moorside, 13,715; Redvales, 10,757.

The population of the ecclesiastical parishes in 1911 was: St. Mary (parish church), 4,182; Holy Trinity, 5,871; St. John, 5,971; St. Mark, 8,531; St. Paul, 6,199; St. Peter, 5,467; St. Thomas, 4,885; All Saints, Elton, 6,298; St. Stephen, Elton, 6,111.

Population of the parliamentary borough in 1921 was 63,163. The number of electors on the parliamentary register in 1923 was 32,650.

ELTON is an ecclesiastical parish, formed February 23rd, 1844, from the civil parish of Bury, and extends in a westerly direction from the town. Under the provisions of the Local Government Act, 1894, it now forms part of the civil parish of Bury. The manufacture of cotton is the chief industry of the place; but there are iron foundries and paper works, and bleaching and dyeing are also carried on. All Saints' church, erected in 1843, is a large building of stone, in the Norman style, consisting of chancel, nave, transept, and a tower above the chancel containing one bell; the east window is a memorial to the wife of a former incumbent; others have been placed to Mr. and Mrs. Oram, late of Bury; Mrs. Geldard, daughter of John Openshaw esq. of Irwell house, Bury; and one by the Hutchinson family, of Radcliffe, as a family memorial: the interior has been completely restored since 1858; in 1884 an organ chamber was built, and in 1885 a new organ was placed in it: in 1895 the church was entirely renovated throughout, and again in 1904 and 1912: there are sittings for 720 persons, of which 250 are free. The register dates from the year 1843. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £458, with residence, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1917 by the Rev. Moseley Sarjeant Baylis M.A. of Lincoln College, Oxford, and surrogate. The vicarage house, built of local stone, was erected in 1863 near the church.

St. Stephen's is an ecclesiastical parish formed in 1884 out of the parish of All Saints, Elton. The church, situated in Bolton road and erected in 1881, at a cost of £8,089, is a building of local stone, in the Early English style, and consists of chancel, nave, aisles, side chapel, vestry and a turret containing one bell: the font, of Caen stone, was the gift of Miss Openshaw, of Irwell House, in memory of her father; there are 362 sittings. The register dates from the year 1884. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £300, in the gift of the vicar of All Saints, Elton, and held since 1901 by the Rev. Arthur Webster Houghton B.A. of Trinity College, Dublin. The Roman Catholic church of Our Lady of Good Counsel and Guardian Angels, Elton, is an edifice of brick and stone, erected in 1887. The Earl of Derby K.G., P.C., G.C.V.O., G.C.B. is the chief landowner.

St. James's, WOOLFOLD, is an ecclesiastical parish, formed in 1915 from the parishes of All Saints', Elton; St. Anne's, Tottington and Walshaw; there is a temporary church in Goodlad street: there are 250 sittings. The living is a vicarage, net yearly value £295, in the gift of the rector of Bury, and held since 1923 by the Rev. George Edward Trenavin Body B.A. of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge.

CARNFORTH is a village, market town and civil parish on Morecambe Bay, with a junction station on the London, Midland and Scottish railway, which has also a branch line to this station from their junction at Wennington, thus affording direct access from Leeds and the south to the Furness district. Carnforth is 6½ miles north from Lancaster, 28 west from Barrow-in-Furness and 23½ north-north-west from London, and was formed into an ecclesiastical parish in 1873 from the civil
