ADDRESS.

We have much pleasure in presenting to our numerous subscribers this Edition of the Directory of Bury and District, trusting it will be found worthy of the generous patronage bestowed upon it.

The Historical and Topographical Sketches have been collected and revised with great care, as on their accuracy the utility of the work, to a considerable extent, depends as a book of reference. As will be seen, the arrangements for Bury include Alphabetical, Classified, and Street Directories, and a complete List of Streets, &c. For Heywood and Radcliffe there are also given Alphabetical and Classified arrangements; and the Directories of the other various Townships are arranged in a concise and simple form.

We beg to tender our cordial thanks to those who have so liberally patronised us, and also to the many gentlemen who have so courteously supplied us with information during the progress of the work.

P. BARRETT & Co.

HENRY HARGREAVES,

(Successor to Mr. JOHN WARD),

VENTILATING ENGINEER, COPPERSMITH, BRAZIER, IRON, ZINC, & TIN-PLATE WORKER,
Manufacturer of Patent Archimedelean Screw and other Ventilators and Smoke Conductors.

SILVER MEDAL awarded at the Royal Agricultural Show, Middleton, September, 1873.
 SILVER MEDAL awarded at the Royal Horse Show, Pomona Gardens, Manchester, May, 1874.

SILVER MEDAL awarded at the Preston Agricultural Society's Show, August, 1874.
 SILVER MEDAL awarded at the Blackburn & E. Lanc. Show, July, 74.
 SILVER MEDAL awarded at Belle Vue Agricultural Show, Aug., 1874.

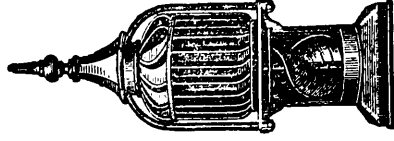

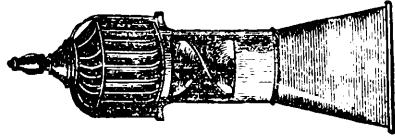

H. H. begs to direct special attention to his improvements in his

NEW STEEL-CENTRED VENTILATOR.

The centre shaft to which the hood is attached, and which revolves with it, is pivoted in a polished steel bearing, by which means the friction is reduced to a minimum. The remarkable ease of working due to this arrangement, and consequent increased durability, constitute for the Steel-Centred Ventilator a most important advantage.

The centre is well fixed in the cast-iron oil cup and tripod bearing, secured with screws to the body of the Ventilator.

These Ventilators are not only the most perfect smoke consumers made, and seldom known to fail in curing the most obstinate smoky chimney, but are also admirably adapted for ventilating Close and Crowded Rooms, Churches, Chapels, Schools, Infirmarys, Public Buildings, Lecture Halls, Hotels, Factories, Moulding Shops, Printing Establishments, Coffee and Smoking Rooms, Club Houses, Kitchens, Stables, &c., &c., and all rooms where gas is used, and where a number of people are compelled to breathe a confined and vitiated atmosphere.

TESTIMONIAL.

ALBERT MILLS, COOK STREET, BURY.

October 21st, 1875.

Mr. H. HARGREAVES.

I find them more effectual than any I have before met with in creating and maintaining a continuous current of air, without the annoyance of a draught, and can recommend them.
 I remain, yours truly,

JOHN ALLEN.

BURY.

BURY is a populous market town and parliamentary and municipal borough, situated on the banks of the Irwell, 9 miles N.N.W. from Manchester,  $6\frac{1}{4}$  from Rochdale,  $5\frac{3}{4}$  from Bolton, 18 from Blackburn,  $34\frac{1}{2}$  from Liverpool,  $46\frac{1}{2}$  from Leeds, and 198 from London. It is one of the most important seats of manufacturing industry in Lancashire, and is intersected by the East Lancashire section, and the main line of the Lancashire and Yorkshire railway system, by which it has a rapid communication with Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, and other parts of the kingdom. This company have extensive works at Buckley Wells, for the construction and repair of their locomotive engines, carriages, waggon, &c.

The town is now approached from the Elton side by a handsome bridge crossing the Irwell, superseding the old narrow structure, which had long been inadequate for the increasing traffic on this road. The present bridge consists of three arches, the centre one being of 31 feet span, and the other two of 27 feet each. The estimated cost, including the pavement, was £5,500, the cost being jointly borne by the Salford Hundred, and the borough. The work which was commenced in July, 1882, has been carried on under the supervision of Mr. W. Radford, bridgemaister, and Mr. J. Cartwright, C.E., borough engineer, the contractors being Messrs. Newhouse & Wrigley, of Bury. It was opened for traffic on the 1st September this year (1883).

Bury contains within its boundary a great variety of important trades though the manufacture of cotton goods, embracing fustians, velveteens, &c., may be considered the staple trade. The Woollen business is also of considerable magnitude; the manufacture of blankets, flannels, and quilts, being carried on to a large extent in the town and neighbourhood. Here are also extensive paper mills, bleach and dye works, iron foundries and machine works, felt hat manufactories, breweries, &c.

The name of the town Bury, formerly spelled Byri, is a Saxon word, and signifies a castle or a market town, both probably applicable at a very early period of English history. Several Antiquarians have attempted to show that Bury was a Roman station, while others have maintained on much stronger grounds, that it was a Saxon station. One of the twelve ancient baronial castles of Lancashire stood in Castle Croft, on the banks of the Irwell. The ancient structure has now totally disappeared, but remains of the foundation have been several times dug up in the gardens, and coins have been found on the site, from the mints of the Edwards, Henry VIII., Elizabeth and the Stuarts. On the 25th August, 1865, the workmen engaged in the construction of a sewer opposite the Parish Church, came upon the foundation wall of the Ancient Castle of Bury, the sewer crossing the west wall of what appears to have been the keep. The interest excited induced the Improvement Commissioners to extend the excavations with a very satisfactory result. The building appears to have been a sort of peel or keep, with a space of about 20 feet between its outer face and the inside of the boundary wall, and the outer foundation walls would, if entire, represent a quadrangle of about 110 by 113 feet. The masonry appeared to be not more ancient than early English, and the main foundation wall was not two feet thick, and was buttressed every few feet. Portions of the ancient foundation have been used in the erection of the Drill Hall or Castle Armoury, which now stands upon the ancient site of the Castle. Not far hence at a place called Castle Hill, the Court of the Royal Manor of Tottington was held, where the power of imprisonment and of the execution of criminals existed, and a neighbouring eminence is still called Gallows Hill. On the heath near this place, Lord Strange is said to have mustered 20,000 men in favour of the royal cause, in 1642. The Roman Road branching from Manchester to Ribchester, passed along the vicinity of Bury. Traces of it may still be found on different portions of the route which ran from Strangeways through Broughton across Kersal Moor, and thence to Prestwich, Pilkington, Radcliffe, and Starling.

In the reign of Henry III., Adam de Bury held a Knight's fee in Bury, of the fee of the Earl of Lincoln, who held it of the King's tenant in chief Earl Ferrers. Adam de Montbegon, mesne lord of Tottington, under the Lacies, gave four bovates of land in Tottington to Edward de Bury, as the marriage portion of his daughter Alicia, and William de Peniston then held that land with Cecilia, the daughter of Alicia. The Bury family were not the sole proprietors at this period, for Henry de Emeledon held two fees in Tottington and in Bury, of ancient tenure. On the death of Henry de Lacy, the Manor of Bury passed to Thomas, Earl of Lancaster, in right of his wife Alicia, the heiress of the Earl of Lincoln. On the creation of the Duchy of Lancaster in 1351, Roger Pilkington is enumerated among the Duchy tenants, as holding one Knight's fee in Bury, which Adam de Bury formerly held of the Honour of Lancaster. The Bury family, however, had not ceased their connexion with the parish then, nor for many reigns afterwards; and the last mention of this family in the Duchy Records, is Richard Bury, a proprietor of land in Middleton in 1612. Edward IV. granted a license to Sir Thomas Pilkington, a devoted adherent to the House of York, to crenelle and embattle his Manor House at Stand, in Pilkington, and this continued the family residence, till on the attainder of Sir Thomas Pilkington, who espoused the cause of Richard III., at Bosworth, the Manor of Bury and the other estates of the Pilkington family, were granted by the Crown to Thomas, first Earl of Derby, from whom they have descended to the present Earl of that name, whose steward holds a court baron annually about Eastertide. The old Court House stood near the Market Cross. The latter bore the date 1559, and had carved upon it the arms of the de Bury family. It was removed in 1818, at which time the old pillory and stocks were also cleared away. The Court Leet still continues to elect, for the various townships, manorial constables, under whose authority the affairs of the town were once managed, but the prerogatives of this Court are now superseded by the powers of the Magistrates, the County Court, the Corporation, and the Police.

In the reign of Elizabeth, Camden describes Bury as a market town not less considerable than Rochdale, but Blome, who wrote in the time of Charles II., says "Bury is a market town of no great account." Until the middle of the next century, no material change seems to have taken place, though the woollen business had been carried on in the parish since the reign of Edward III., when it was introduced to this country by a number of Flemish emigrants. The manufactures and commerce of the town have advanced steadily during the last thirty years, and great improvements have been effected by the demolition of old buildings, and widening of thoroughfares, &c., though much more is still required in this direction before completeness can be arrived at. Bury possesses many natural advantages, and these supplemented by the ample facilities afforded by railway and canal communication, and the enterprise and skill of the inhabitants, have been the chief means of the town being raised to its present high position in the commercial world. John Kay, a native of Bury, introduced in 1738 the flying shuttle; and the drop-box and the cotton and woollen card engines were invented by his son Robert.

Bury was created a parliamentary borough under the Reform Act of 1832, by which it was enabled to return one member to Parliament; and its first representative was Richard Walker, Esq. He was succeeded in the representation in 1852 by the Right Honourable F. Peel, who in 1857 was defeated by Robert Needham Philips, Esq. Mr. Peel was again returned in 1859, and continued in the representation until 1865, when R. N. Philips was elected, and he still continues to represent the borough in Parliament. The total number of voters on the register in 1881 was 6,858. Before 1876 the local government of the town was vested in the hands of Improvement Commissioners, but on the 9th September of that year a Charter of Incorporation was granted constituting Bury a municipal borough, the body corporate being styled "The Mayor, Aldermen, and Burgesses of Bury." The borough is divided into five wards, viz.: Church Ward, Redvales Ward, East Ward, Moorside Ward, and Elton Ward, for each of which six councillors are elected. There are also ten aldermen; thus the body corporate, including the mayor, numbers 40 members. The total number of burgesses amounts to 8,874. The Corporation Offices are in Bank street.

Alcock, Thomas Roberts, James Park, Samuel Cook, James Farrar, and Robert Hall, Esqs. Clerk to Magistrates—Mr. F. Bull.

The Town Hall, Assembly Rooms, Athenæum, Derby Hotel, and Estate Offices form one side of Market street, from Fleet street to Haymarket street, and is a handsome range of buildings in the Italian style of architecture. The Athenæum is a convenient building, containing a lecture and exhibition hall, 101 feet by 41 feet, and capable of accommodating about 1,000 persons; a museum, 41 feet by 39; reading and news-room, library of 6,000 volumes, class rooms, and offices. This admirable institution is in a flourishing condition. There are 760 members, and 200 students attend the Science and Art Classes. The subjects taught include drawing, electricity, chemistry, mathematics, languages, &c. The Bury Co-operative Society occupy a handsome building in Knowsley street, in which is a fine hall adapted for public meetings, &c. An important feature of the society is its educational department, which has a library of 11,000 volumes, the latter being held over the stores in Market street. The Police Station and Court Room form part of the Town Hall, and Petty Sessions are held here every Monday and Thursday. The County Court is held in Philips Hall, Garden street, and its jurisdiction extends over the townships of Ainsworth, Ashworth, Birtle-cum-Bamford, Bury, Elton, Heap, Hopwood, Pilkington, Radcliffe, Tottington Lower End, and Walmersley-cum-Shuttleworth. Crompton Hutton, Esq., is judge, and T. S. Grundy, Esq., is registrar. The Market Hall, built by the Earl of Derby in 1840, is of a triangular form, and the whole is covered and well lighted. The centre of the market is occupied with stalls surrounded with shops. Thursday is the chartered market day, but Saturday has now been established by custom, and on this day it is well attended; adjacent is a fish market. Fairs are held on March 5th, May 3rd, and September 18th. The Bury Banking Company's establishment in Silver street is an elegant stone structure. The principal entrance leads into a vestibule 15 feet by 9, and the banking room, 46 feet by 28, is beautifully decorated. There are also managers' and clerks' rooms, waiting rooms, suites of offices, &c. The other banks in the town are the Manchester and Liverpool District Bank, Market street; the Lancashire and Yorkshire Bank, Broad street; and the Union Bank of Manchester, Market place. The Savings Bank, established 1822, is situate at the corner of Bank street and Silver street. The total number of accounts comprises 3,221, including 4 penny banks, 14 charitable societies, and 88 friendly societies, and the amount owing to the depositors amounts to £114,668. The Public Baths, St. Mary's place, now owned by the Corporation, were erected in 1863. There are two plunge baths, Turkish baths, slipper baths, &c. Philips Hall, Garden street, is a commodious building, erected in 1876, at the sole expense of R. N. Philips, Esq., M.P., and here is held the Trevelyan Club, an extensively patronised institution. There are in the town numerous other clubs, social and political, the principal being the Prince's, St. Marie's gate; the Palatine, Market place; the Clarence, 1, Fleet street; the Conservative, Market place and Elton; the Liberal, Walmersley road and Elton; several working men's clubs, and a Catholic Club, in Fleet street. The Bury Young Men's Christian Association was established in March, 1875, and is located at 16, Haymarket street. There is a reading-room, small library, and educational classes, well attended. The number of members is 250. There are also in the town a Philharmonic Society, a Society of Fine Arts, &c. Here also are lodges of the following Orders:—Freemasons, Foresters, Philanthropic Free Brethren, Oddfellows, Shepherds, Catholic Brethren, Druids, and Rechabites. There are two Temperance Halls, one situated in Henry street, built in 1873, and the other in Taylor street, Freetown.

The Bury Dispensary Hospital occupies a pleasant situation in Walmersley road. It was opened March 25th, 1882, and the cost of erection was £14,000. A Dispensary was established in Bury, in 1829, but this is now amalgamated with the new institution. A great impetus was given to the erection of the Hospital by the handsome bequest (£4,000) of the late John Norris, Esq. Another bequest of £10,000 was left by the late Thomas Wrigley, Esq., and the two large wards are named after these gentlemen. The site, containing four acres, was presented by the Earl of Derby, and the designs were supplied by Mr. Lawrence Booth. The building is on the pavilion principle, and contains two large wards, and four smaller ones. The accommodation, at present, is for 30 beds. All the outside walls are faced with stone; the interior wood work is of pitch-pine varnished; and the ward and day rooms are warmed by Shillito and Shorland's open grates. Mr. James H. Greensill, M.R.C.S., house surgeon; Mrs. Elizabeth Eilbeck, matron.

The Drill Hall, or Castle Armoury, in Cooper Street, was erected in 1868, at a cost of £3,000, and is the head quarters of the 1st Vol. Batt. Lanc. Fusiliers. It has a castellated Norman front, and the drill hall is 110 feet by 73 feet. The right wing of the building contains the Armoury, and there are also Guard and Orderly Rooms, Sergeant-Major's Quarters, and a well-lighted Reading Room. The Wellington Barracks, Elton, are the Head Quarters of the 20th Regimental District, of which Colonel F. S. Vacher is Commanding Officer. The 3rd Batt. Lancashire Fusiliers are also stationed here; Lieut-Col. James Ashton commanding; Captain Randolph, Adjutant. The Theatre Royal, Knowsley street, is pretty well patronised; as is also the Skating Rink, recently established in Georgiana street. Among the ornaments of the town may be mentioned the Peel Monument. It stands in the centre of the Market place, and was erected by subscription in 1852, at a cost of £3,000, in memory of the late Sir Robert Peel, Bart. The figure is 10 feet in height, on a pedestal of Scotch granite, 12 feet by 5 inches high, the whole being enclosed with a strong iron palisading. The Corporation Gasworks, situate in Elton, consist of three gasholders capable of containing 1,450,000 cubic feet of gas, which is sold to consumers at 2s. 9d. per 1,000 feet. The streets of the borough are lighted by 1,667 public lamps. There are about 12,000 consumers, and 215,000,000 cubic feet are consumed annually. The neighbouring villages of Walmersley, Cockey Moor, and Walshaw are also supplied with gas from these works. The Waterworks are also owned by the Corporation, and the inhabitants have a liberal supply of water. Several of the adjoining villages get their supply of water from these works. There are three newspapers published in the town, viz., the Bury Times, the Bury Guardian, both weekly, and the East Lancashire Echo, every evening.

St. Mary's Parish Church is of great antiquity, being founded during the latter portion of the 10th century. It was rebuilt in 1285, and restored in 1535. Again it was rebuilt in 1775, and in 1844 the spire was rebuilt. In 1876 the whole of the building, with the exception of the spire, was rebuilt from a design furnished by Mr. J. Crowther, the cost of erection amounting to £27,000, raised by subscription. It is now a handsome Gothic edifice, and contains 1,000 sittings, the whole of which are free. The benefice is a rectory of the annual nominal value of £1,937, in the patronage of the Earl of Derby, and held by the Rev. Edward James Geoffrey Hornby, M.A., (Surrogate and Rural Dean). The population of the parish in 1881 was 5,443. The Parish Registers date from 1590. St. John's Church is a plain structure, situate in Stanley street, erected in 1770. It contains 790 sittings, of which 200 are free. New windows were put in and the interior decorated in 1882. The benefice is a vicarage of the annual value of £320, in the patronage of the rector of Bury, and held by the Rev. Edward James Smith, M.A., (Surrogate.) Population of the parish in 1881, 6,346. St. Paul's Church, Wash lane, is a commodious edifice erected in 1842. It contains 1,600 sittings, of which 400 are free. The benefice is a vicarage of the annual value of £340, in the patronage of the rector of Bury, Thomas Openshaw, James Openshaw, John M. Wyke, and John Lomax, Esqrs. The incumbent is the Rev. James Chell. Population of the parish in 1881, 13,223. St. Peter's Church is a neat Gothic structure in Manchester road, erected in 1872 at a cost of £6,000, exclusive of site. It is built from a design of Messrs. Maycock and Bell, and it contains 500 sittings, all free. The benefice is a vicarage of the annual value of £250, in the patronage of the rector of Bury, and held by the Rev. Richard Hudson, M.A. Population of the parish in 1881, 3,301. Holy Trinity Church, Spring street, is a handsome Gothic edifice, erected from a design by Mr. E. G. Paley, of Lancaster, in 1865. The cost of erection, exclusive of site, was £5,000. It contains 627 sittings, all of which are free. The benefice is a vicarage of the annual value of £360, in the patronage of the rector of Bury, and held by the Rev. Joseph Colveley Hordern. Population of the parish in 1881, 6,451. St. Thomas' Church, Rochdale road, was erected in 1866, from a design supplied by Messrs. Blackwell, Son, and Booth. This is also a handsome Gothic structure, containing 652 sittings, of which 184 are free. The benefice is a vicarage of the annual value of £220, in the patronage of the rector of Bury, and held by the Rev. John Williams, M.A. Population of the parish in 1881, 4,468. All Saints' Church, Elton, is a commodious structure erected in 1843. It contains 720 sittings, of which 240 are free.

The benefice is a vicarage of the annual value of £300, in the patronage of the rector of Bury, and held by the Rev. Edward Westerman, M.A. (Surrogate.) Population of the parish in 1881, 11,781. St. Mark's Church, Freetown, opened in September this year (1883), is a Gothic structure of handsome appearance, erected at a cost of £6,000. Previous to the opening of the church, service was held in the schoolroom. Rev. Bigland Withers, vicar. St. Stephen's Church, Elton, was erected in 1882, at a cost of over £6,000, exclusive of site, which was presented by the Earl of Derby, the architect being Mr. Redmayne, of Manchester. It contains 376 sittings, all free. The benefice is in the patronage of the Vicar of All Saints, and held by the Rev. Ralph Parkinson Linfield, M.A.

The Catholic Church dedicated to St. Marie was erected in 1842, and is pleasantly situated in St. Marie's Gate, Manchester road. The Rev. Michael Byrne, M.R., is priest. The Catholic population of the parish is 2,310. St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Peter street, was erected in 1871, and is a neat brick edifice with stone dressings, and consisting of nave, chancel, and Lady chapel. A good organ was added in 1880, and the church was interiorly decorated. It will seat 700 persons, and the population of the parish is 2,926. Rev. John Fraser, pastor.

The Wesleyan Chapel, Union street, is a large brick edifice, erected in 1817, superseding the chapel in Clerke street, which was built in 1785. There are school-chapels at Pits o'th Moor, Birtle, Woolfold, and Walshaw. The circuit ministers are the Rev. James Francis Broughton and Amos Doell. The Presbyterian (Unitarian) Chapel, Bank street, dates from 1719, but the edifice was rebuilt in 1852. It is a neat Gothic structure, and the Rev. Douglas Walmsley, B.A., is pastor. The Independents have four large chapels in Bury. That in Rochdale road dates from 1793, and is under the pastoral care of the Rev. Joseph G. Deaville; Bethel Chapel, Henry street, was built in 1807, and recently enlarged; Rev. Charles Ashford, minister. The chapel at Castle Croft was built in 1846; Rev. Hugh A. Lawson, minister; and that at Blackford Bridge, a neat building, was erected in 1875; Rev. William Nicholls, minister. The Methodist New Connexion Chapel, Heywood street, built in 1878, has superseded the chapel in Bolton street, erected in 1813; Rev. James P. Goodwin, minister. The Primitive Methodists had a place of worship in William street in 1828, but this was abandoned in 1866, when the new chapel was erected in Walmersley road. This body have also school-chapels at Gigg and Elton; Rev. Charles Dudley, minister. The Methodist Free Church (Brunswick), North street, is a large edifice, erected in 1837, but since then enlarged, at a cost of about £1,000; Revs. Joseph Kendal and Charles Bentley, ministers. Another school-chapel for this body is now being built in Fishpool, a progressing part of the town. It was designed by Messrs. Maxwell and Tuke, and the estimated cost is £1,307. Mr. John Imeson, contractor. There are also chapels or meeting rooms belonging to this denomination at Heap Bridge, Limefield, Elton, Warth Fold, Parker street, and Higher Woodhill. The Baptist Chapel (Ebenezer), Knowsley street, is a substantial brick edifice, erected in 1853; Rev. W. L. Mayo, minister. Providence Baptist Chapel, Bridge street, Freetown, was erected in 1836; Rev. R. Moxon, minister. The Christian Church, Rochdale road, is a small but neat building, erected in 1860. The New Jerusalem Church, Walmersley road, was also built in 1860. The Independent Methodists have a chapel in Kay street, built in 1869, and the Free Gospel Methodists have a meeting room in Freetown. The Welsh Presbyterian Chapel, Benson street, is a small, neat building, erected in 1879, at a cost of £1,100, raised by subscription.

Day and Sunday Schools, many of them extensive establishments, are attached to most of the principal places of worship, and the duty of securing the attendance of the children devolves upon a school attendance committee of the Corporation. The Grammar School is situate in the Wylde, and the Rev. William Howlett, M.A., is head master. The school was founded in 1726, by the Rev. Roger Kay, then rector of Tittleton, prebendary of Salisbury, and formerly of Bury. It is endowed with two scholarships for seven years each; one at St. John's College, Cambridge, and the other at Brazenose College, Oxford.

The Union Workhouse is situate in Jericho, and it possesses accommodation for 750 inmates. The offices of the Board of Guardians are in Parson's lane, where the Guardians meet every alternate Wednesday, and the Union comprises the following townships:—Ainsworth, Ashworth, Birtle-cum-Bamford, Bury, Elton, Heap, Hopwood, Pilkington, Pilsworth, Radcliffe, Tottington Lower End, and Walmersley-cum-Shuttleworth. Rateable value of the Union, £599,926; and the area is 33,521 acres. The population amounted, in 1881, to 129,649. The Rev. E. Westerman is chairman of the Board; William Plant Woodcock, Esq., clerk; and Mr. William H. Bailey, master of the workhouse. The Cemetery occupies a pleasant position on the Manchester road. It was opened for interment in 1868. It covers an area of 33 acres, and has three mortuary chapels, registrar's and gardener's houses, &c.

The township of Elton extends into the town, and is mostly included in the borough of Bury, which contained in 1861 a population of 33,556; in 1871, 41,344; and in 1881, 52,126. The parliamentary borough contains 49,746. The township of Bury contained in 1861, 30,397; 1871, 32,611; and in 1881, 39,285 souls; and it covers an area of 2,330 acres. Rateable value, £162,196.

The land of the parish is soft loam, and tolerably fertile, but the larger portion of it is in pasture.
