Plaintiffs must give the exact residence and business of the defendant. They must also have all necessary account books, etc., with them in Court on the trial of each case. Fees on summonses and executions must be paid when the same are entered. Hearing fees must be paid before or when each case is called. No money will be paid out the first week in January.

The County Courts have jurisdiction in all personal actions where the debt, damage, or demand does not exceed £100, whether consisting of an original demand of £100, or of a larger amount reduced by a set-off to that amount ; and by consent of the parties the Courts have jurisdiction with respect to all actions assigned to the King's Bench Division of the High Court ; and a summons against a defendant residing out of the jurisdiction of the Court may be obtained at the office by leave of the Registrar.
